

There wasn't really any differences that I could notice between using the sites on different. I don't know if this was because the settings that my browsers use are the exact same. The only true difference that I found was the selector between phone and email preference is lightly outlined on safari versus the other browsers.